With Stephenson's Campaign Expenses During The Present Week, It Is Now Expected.

MANY WILL BE CALLED TO TESTIFY

List Of Names Of Men Who Handled Money For The Sen- ator-Elect To Be Closely Questioned As To How They Used It.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., March 8.—The resolutions of the United States Senator Isaac Stephenson last week has all appearances secured him his seat in the national legislature for six years, but it also has served to pave the way for the immediate completion of the investigation into his campaign methods preceding the September primary.
By virtue of his success on the twenty-third joint ballot last Thursday and an agreement whereby the time limit of the investigation is extended and $10,000 more appropriated for the expenses of the probe, affairs in the state capital will go more smoothly from now on.
Although the actual passage of the bill appropriating $10,000 more for the investigation and the adoption of a resolution to extend the time limit will not occur until Wednesday, when these measures come up on special order, the fact agreement by which his success is assured will result in an immediate change in tactics on the part of the investigators. It is also part of the agreement that the Sanborn resolution, providing for the immediate completion of the inquiry into Stephenson's methods, shall be adopted, possibly tomorrow, when

LINE CITY MAN HAD A NARROW ESCAPE

Kicked a Package Containing Twenty Pounds of Nitro-Glycerine Left on City Walk.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Beloit, Wis., March 8.—While in an intended condition Saturday night, Daniel Shoshan and John Ryan, a pair of notorious characters in Beloit, left twenty pounds of nitro-glycerine on the sidewalk in front of the Hotel Stanton Laundry. Serious consequences might have happened had not Mr.
Harvard, the proprietor of the laundry, seen some children playing with the package. He gave it a kick and on opening it found it contained nitro-glycerine. Earlier in the evening these men where in Burger's meat market on State street and were chased out by the proprietor with a butcher knife. The nitro-glycerine is now at the city jail but the men have not been arrested. It is believed that they had the explosives for the purpose of securing $10,000.
Henry White, a former Beloit man, who left here about a year ago, was killed in a runaway accident at Peconia yesterday. White was taking a load of milk to the creamery when the team ran away. He was picked up shortly afterward by a farmer, but on account of the profuse loss of blood, death ensued. White's wife, from whom he was separated last year, one daughter and three stepdaughters, survive him. He was thirty-nine years of age.

VAUDEVILLE LOOKS GOOD TO JEFFRIES

Forty Weeks on the Morris Circuit Will Enable Big Fighter to Carry Home $100,000.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
New York, March 8.—Making his debut in this city this afternoon, James J. Jeffries, the champion heavyweight pugilist, is to appear on the vaudeville stage during the next twenty weeks under the management of William Morris. The salary paid to Jeffries is said to be the largest that any fighter has ever received for appearances outside the prize ring.
The exact figure has not been made public, but it is believed that if the champion fulfills his twenty weeks on the Morris circuit and Mr. Morris exercises his option for another twenty weeks, then the giant pugilist will be able to return to his California home with nearly $100,000 stowed in his pockets, which is as much, if not more, than he could hope to realize by meeting Jack Johnson in the ring.

MANN MURDER CASE CALLED FOR TRIAL

Chicagoan Accused of Strangling Fan-nia Gilmore Thompson Denies Knowledge of Crime.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Chicago, March 8.—The case of Luman C. Mann, accused of the murder of Mrs. Fanny Gilmore Thompson, was called for trial today. The Thompson woman was found murdered in a Michigan avenue rooming-house last summer. She had been tied to the bed and strangled to death. Robbery was the supposed motive for the crime, as the woman was known to have considerable jewelry in her possession. Upon the discovery of the murder the police set out at once to locate a man who had registered with the woman at the rooming house a few days before the murder. The man passed as the woman's husband, but the police were unable to obtain only a meagre description of him and for weeks the case was pursued without result. Finally, when the mystery had been almost forgotten, Mann was arrested in the east and returned to Chicago. He was a traveling salesman, the son of respectable and well-to-do parents. He stoutly maintains his innocence of the murder and denies having even known the victim. The police, on the other hand, declare they have a strong case of circumstantial evidence against him.

OPERA WILL BE MORE EXPENSIVE

Opening of Oscar Hammerstein's Subscription Books Finds New Yorkers Very Eager.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
New York, March 8.—Money seems to be plentiful in New York, to judge from the applications received by Oscar Hammerstein today on the opening of subscription books for next season at the Manhattan opera house.
There appears to be no lack of persons who are willing to pay three or four times as much as it costs for the ordinary family to live an entire year for the privilege of occupying boxes on special nights and listening to the singing of the fabulous priced songbirds.

SMOOTH SWINDLER GOT IN HIS WORK

Ordered Large Bill at Tarrant & Os-good's Grocery and Secured an Advance of $3.67 in Cash.
Early this morning a medium-sized stranger with a light mustache, wearing workman's attire and a stiff hat, visited the Tarrant & Osgood grocery store and ordered a large bill of goods to be delivered to an alleged railroad "bridge gang" which was represented as having arrived here for a lengthy sojourn. The same firm forwarded supplies for one of the bridge gangs last fall and when the stranger said, as if by way of an afterthought, that he had to buy some meat at Tarrant's which would cost $3.67 and asked Mr. Osgood to advance him the money and charge it to the bill, Mr.
Osgood complied. The delivery boy could find no bridge gang to deliver the goods to and collect from. The meat market had sold none of its wares to any man answering the description. In company with Officer Champion Mr. Osgood made a tour of the saloons about nine o'clock and also took a trip along the railroad tracks on a C. & N. W. switch engine and inspected the hanging about the river district, but the smooth swindler could not be located?
Secured Five Dollars: Friday night a thief gained entrance to Thomas Abbott's saloon on South Main street through the skylight and looted the cash drawer of five dollars and stole a quantity of whiskey and cigars. He made his exit by the rear door which was found open by Night Watchman Ponro.

FREIGHT BODIES MAY CONSOLIDATE

Southern, Eastern, and Western Classification Committee Talk About Amalgamation.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Mobile, Ala., March 8.—The Southern Classification committee met in this city today to consider and act upon the proposition for its amalgamation with the Eastern Classification committee. The Eastern and Western committees already have taken favorable action on the proposition.
The plans for the amalgamation of the three bodies have been under consideration for some time. In support of the proposition it is argued that the combining of the three classification committees into one body would do away with the present different freight tariff schedules of the three organizations, which are a cause of much inconvenience and annoyance to the railroads and shippers alike.

KANSAS CITY HAS AUTOMOBILE SHOW

ganda has been making for several of the exhibits the show is declared to excel anything of the kind ever given west of Chicago.

down a decision in the "Commodities burn rate law.

Mack, depart today for New Orleans the championship season. All of the preliminary training will be done in the Crescent City, with practice games in Mobile and Atlanta on the way home.

PLAN DETAILS FOR A NEW DEPARTMENT

University Authorities Are Hard at Work Arranging For the Government Station.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., March 8.—The authorities at the University of Wisconsin are huddled over the final victory in securing the government forestry experiment station for Madison, and steps will be taken immediately to carry out the promises made by the board of regents, when that body promised to furnish the site and first building. The initial expenditure on the part of the government will be $58,000, of which $14,000 will be for additional buildings and $14,000 for equipment.
The plant will be located south of Camp Randall, the athletic field, and adjacent to the lines of two railroads —the Illinois Central and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. Access will also be had to the Northwestern line by the use of the tracks of the Milwaukee road across the city, and thus the laboratory will have excellent sidetrack facilities, one of the important elements contributing to the success of the University Wisconsin in handling the station.
The laboratory to be established here is a project of the federal forestry bureau. The department, in accordance with its policy to conserve the national resources, felt the need of practical study of forestry problems for years and to that end has been conducting three small stations in different parts of the country, but these have been inadequate. Wisconsin, liberally supplied with forests, has had an opportunity to give the science of forestry great attention. The state possesses experts of national fame and the university is deeply interested in the matter, and this interest was evidenced in a substantial manner by the action of the regents in appropriating $30,000 toward the project.
The purpose of the institution is forest economy. Horticulture is not included in its scope. The conversion of trees for practical needs will be the study for the men in charge. Every feature will be studied with a view to its utility. Wood pulp as used for various purposes will be one of the leading problems.

WILL ATTEMPT TO ADD DIFFICULTY

TO STEPHENSON'S BEING SEATED BY THE SENATE.
LA FOLLETTE COMING HOME

It is Rumored That He Intends to Direct the Preliminary Work In This Respect.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., March 8.—Following the election of Senator Stephenson last Thursday for the long term in the United States senate of six years, his supporters attempted to get a certificate that would take cognizance of the vote of Jan. 26, but failed. This new phase of the situation has just developed and the anti-Stephenson men are expressing considerable satisfaction over the form of the certificate given.
The Stephenson forces claim that the senator was elected at least twice, before the opposition would concede his election. The first time was on Jan. 26 and the second time on March 3, when Assemblyman Bussett of Waupaca withdrew his vote.
If a certificate had been issued that took cognizance of the vote of Jan.
26, the anti-Stephenson forces claim that it would have been difficult to get the United States senator to order an investigation, if desired, further than into the method of conducting the primary. Now they claim that the United States senate can investigate the election up to the casting of the votes on March 4, and determine if any ulterior methods were used.
The certificate as issued expressly declares there was no election on Jan. 26. In the following terms. When both "houses of the legislature of the state convened in joint assembly the said state convened in joint assembly at 12 o'clock meridian, Wednesday, the twenty-seventh day of January, 1903, and that at said convention the journal of the proceedings of each house of the preceding day in the matter of the election of a United States senator to succeed the Honorable Isaac Stephenson for the term beginning the fourth day of March, 1903, were read, from which it appeared that no person had received a majority of the votes in each house." It is upon this record that the anti-Stephenson forces expect to carry on a further contest of the senator's election in the United States senate.
Senator La Follette's visit here this week may have a material effect upon the situation.
State Treasurer A. H. Dahl has practically completed the collection of one million and a half of dollars in taxes from the railroads in the state. Two or three smaller railroads of the state have not paid yet and an investigation is being made to ascertain if the smaller lines have merged into some larger system. The railroad taxes are paid twice a year, in February and again in August. This was the custom of paying taxes established when the old license fee system was in operation and the change to the ad valorem plan, recognized in a degree the system of paying under the license fee scheme.
The largest fee to be collected came from the Northwestern railroad of $313,777.83 and the next largest was that of the St. Paul road of $339, $76.27. The Chicago & Lake Superior paid, but this line had not paid its taxes by Saturday, according to the records in the office of the state treasurer. There are about fifty-five railroads operating in the state. The taxes are due on Feb. 10, and nearly all of the roads had paid at the time.
Among those that had not paid was the Northern Pacific, which has since remitted its tax paying a penalty of $64.67 for delay.
The amount of taxes paid by some of the larger roads follows: Omaha Line ..... $110,224.47 Northwestern ..... 343,777.83
St. Paul ..... 339,776.27
St. Paul ..... 339,776.27
Wisconsin Central ..... 121,972.51 Great Northern ..... 21,226.02 Northern Pacific ..... 11,240.43 Green Bay & Western ..... 10,263.14 Illinois Central ..... 456.56 Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic ..... 6,687.01 Burlington line ..... 61,566.83 La Crosse & South Eastern ..... 234.95
The smaller lines generally pay the total amount due for taxes in one check, but the larger lines, like the St. Paul and Northwestern, pay a certain amount each day by draft until the total taxes have been paid. Only a few of the managers come to Madison and personally pay the tax at the office of the state treasurer.

LAY FLORIDA'S KEEL TOMORROW

BUILDING OF 20,000-TON BATTLE-SHIP TO BEGIN.
AT NEW YORK NAVY YARD

Will be Sister Ship of the Utah and North Dakota and Will Have 25 Per Cent More Efficiency in Battery.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Washington, D. C., March 8.—Tomorrow, the anniversary of the historic battle between the Monitor and the Merrimack, has been fixed by the Navy Department as the date for laying the keel of the 20,000-ton battleship Florida at the New York Navy Yard. The event will be attended with considerably ceremony under the supervision of Rear Admiral Goodrich and Naval Constructor Dexter.
The construction of the Florida will be followed with more than ordinary interest by Navy Department officials, partly for the reason that she will be the first battleship to be built at one of the Government navy yards since the Connecticut, flagship of Rear Admiral Sperry on the recent trip around the world, was turned out from the New York Navy Yard. The old question as to whether the big ships for the navy can be built as cheaply and as efficiently by the Government at its own navy yards as by private shipbuilders is still a mooted one. The construction of the Florida at the New York yard may settle the controversy, for almost simultaneously with the laying of her keel there has just taken place at the Camden yards of the New York Company the same initial step in the construction of the battleship Utah.
The Florida and the Utah will be sister ships. That it will be a race between the shipbuilding company and the Government navy yard to turn out the speediest ship in the shortest time is already made plain by the announcement of the New Shipbuilding Company that they intend to establish a new record for time in the completion of the Utah.
While the Government has cut the time for work on the Utah and Florida considerably lower than has been the custom for battleships it is expected that builders of both vessels will pare off at least one-half year from the requirements. Should they succeed, the shipbuilding records for heavy fighting vessels would be indorsed with a new redletter entry.
The Florida and the Utah will be sister ships of the North Dakota, now being completed at Quincy, Mass., and the Delaware, recently launched at Newport News. These four ships will form an indomitable squadron.
Compared with the battleships, completed or under construction, of the navy of any foreign country, they will surpass all.
The Florida is to carry as heavy armor and as powerful armament as any known vessel of its class; will have a speed of twenty-one knots, which is believed to be the highest practicable for a vessel of this type and class, and will have the highest practicable radius of action.
The arrangement of her main battery guns is such as to permit a broadside fire 25 per cent greater than that of the broadside fire of any battleship now built. Her defensive qualities, other than those dependent upon armor protection, are such as to give the maximum degree of protection to all the vital portions by means of unusually effective compartmental subdivisions, so that in conjunction with her armor protection the defensive qualities of the Florida are expected to be distinctly superior to those of any battleship hitherto designed.
Her armament will consist of a main battery of ten 12-inch breech-loading rifles and her secondary battery will be fourteen 5-inch rapid-fire guns, four 3-pounder saluting guns, four 1-pounder semi-automatic guns, two 3-inch field guns, one 2-inch machine gun. In addition she will carry two submerged torpedo tubes.

"He That Despoileth, Despoileth Not

Man but God"—Saul Seeks Wise

Men in Zion.

Rev. Henry Willmann of the Trinity Episcopal Church, took the text for his sermon for the second Sunday in Lent from the Epistle of the day.

"He therefore that despoileth, despoileth not man, but God, who hath also given unto us His Holy Spirit," which is the eighth verse of the fourth chapter of the first Epistle of St. Paul to the Thessalonians.

This text, which requires a great deal of study in order to get its full significance, was handled by the priest in a lucid and convincing manner, which completely explained the somewhat obscure meaning of the verse. In introducing his subject,

Rev. Willmann first contrasted the true relation of man and religion with the view held by many.

Religion is not a contract between man and God which can be repudiated at any time man sees fit. It is an absolute claim which God has upon man, and which man can not escape if he would. The obligation is always there.

There is no doubt that there are men who live a life that is devoid of any thing that may be considered as religious, or even if this life is lived without religion, even if the flesh and the soul of the world, the flesh and the devil, his life is not a good one in that he has no place for religion. Religion has no claim on the life which he cannot ignore, from which he cannot get himself free.

In amplifying the text, Rev. Willmann gave four ways through which man despoiles God by his way of living. The first is a life of indifference; the second, a life in which God has no part; the third, one of active sin; and the fourth and last, a life of open denial and antagonism.

The first class of sinners, those who are indifferent to God, are in many cases members of the church, but lack the true spirit of Christianity, in that they treat all things as life as mere pastimes, simply means of "killing time." They regard their life in a long course of pleasure.

These pleasures may be harmless or harmful, but in either case their life is such in that they do not recognize their duty toward God; that they are put in the world for a higher purpose than merely enjoying themselves, whether their pleasures be harmless or not. They know that they have certain religious duties, but so long as they can enjoy themselves, they are indifferent to them.

The second class are those in whom life God has no part whatsoever.

ed States you will remember how some of the mountain peaks mark our western borders. Each mountain has a distinct appearance. So these Old Testament men stand out like the mountains. Samuel was simple, primitive, and tender; Elisha, rough, ruf-fered, and stern; Ezekiel, prophetic;

Daniel, courageous and brave. We find that each had their distinctive characteristics and each was a marked man in his day.

Saul set out to find his father's asses but being unable to do so said to his servants: "There ought to be a man of God somewhere, and asked if there was such a man there. The reply which he received indicated that Samuel was a man known far and wide.

"Every man ought to be a marked man. There ought to be about the man that follows God something that distinguishes him from other men.

"That distinguishing quality should not be the ability to make money.

The principles of the New Testament, when properly understood, place a man above want. The teachings of the New Testament place a man above the plane of want. After a man has enough to provide for himself and his family, his boarding should stop and his money put to philanthropic uses.

The Old Testament is distinctly a negative book. The teachings of it are "Thou shalt not." It develops in a man only negative qualities.

Too many people have not got out of the Old Testament. The greatest mistake a man can make is to point to his negative qualities and think that he has accomplished all that is required of him. Jesus charged the disciples to be "perfect as your father is perfect." He said to them:

"Be ye perfect as your father is perfect." The greatest mistake a man has made is to think that he has fulfilled his duty when he has not been a member of a church. He must join the forces of the church that it may become a Power in the country for the betterment of conditions.

Honesty and morality are just as necessary for success in a business life as industry. The best thing to get these qualities is in a church.

A thing that distinguishes a man of God is that he retains his ideals.

There are a great many things in the world today that would tend to topple over their ideals. The saddest chapter in the Old Testament is the account of the loss of ideals. Samson was called to be a judge of Israel, a young man strong and virile. After a few years he began to weaken and lose his hold on the right and by and by the strong, vigorous young man became a slave.

There are ideals in your life which have been erected by you. Will you let these principles of virtue and man-

W. W. Watt, who now makes his home in Reno, Nevada, writes the following interesting letter to the editor of the Janesville Gazette, explains that people make money there quickly, but it costs to live just the same:

Editor Gazette:

From a population standpoint the city of Reno and Janesville differ but little, but this Nevada metropolis has grown from 5,000 in 1903 to 18,000 in 1909. This rapid growth has evidently unbalanced the minds of the average resident here who has developed an unlimited supply of unadulterated greed when it involves the everyday problem of living.

The average family washing here costs $5, while in Janesville and Beloit the laundryman with his application of the bill is $2. The Reno scrub-woman is always in demand at $3 per day, which means eight hours' work—most of the time of which she spends in telling you the history of her life. Coal here is $12 per ton and several of the farmers make a strong advertising point in stating that "you get every pound that you pay for."

The theatre proposition here is one that would make Manager Myers smile. The shows that Reno enjoys are on a class with what Stoughton and Edgerton get. Burlesque shows are popular here, and if the place should get a production like "The Girl Question" there would be no limit as to the price.

TOO GOOD TO MISS

Really when it comes to handling business to its former friends and constituents, the Milwaukee Free Press takes a back seat to one here. The following editorial on Senator Blaine and the shame his home city, Janesville, feels in his actions as state senator is well worth republication, if only as a piece of clever English and not for a political purpose. The editorial writer of the Milwaukee Sentinel paper says:
"On the southwestern bank of the Wisconsin, not many miles from its confluence with the Mississippi, nestles the little city of Janesville, girl by her guardian hills.
"It is a charming spot, which nature has dealt with in her sweetest, kindest mood. The wooded heights seem lovingly to brood over the wooded valley down below. In summer time it is a verdant paradise of trees and birds and flowers and glistening streams; in autumn, the pugnacity of death-struck leaves embowers it with something more than mortal glory; in winter, the eternal silence of the snow enfolds the valley and the quiet town, and lends to it that calm and somber beauty which challenges the skill of brush and pen.
"Enclosed in this wealth of natural beauty, the little city with the Spanish name does not dream of its pastoral repose. Long wooded away from the metropolitan ambitions of her early days, she has not therefore folded her hands in idleness or self-satisfied stagnation. Janesville is a thrifty, prosperous community, a city of beautiful homes, of well-kept streets, of municipal enterprise.
"But the chief pride of Janesville rests in her sons and daughters who have gone forth into the world and made their mark there. She numbers them by the scores—those men and women of the larger life of whom the dearest spot on earth still is the badge town among the encircling hills. She has her statesmen, lawyers, ministers, her educators, playwrights, and men of letters, her soldiers, doctors and government officials—the fame of some of whom is nationwide.
"And now, at last, after half a century of incubation, there has emerged from this historic city on the Wisconsin—the ancient 'yellow banks' of the Indian trail—the most unique of her offerings to the greater world. It is the Hon. State Senator John J. Blaine.
"That here is the strange part of it, that in this case the citizens of Janesville are in no wise delighted by the legislative acrobatics of the redundant, blatant and self-exploiting senator. They say it is no credit to a community to have one of its people made the laughing stock of an entire state, the butt of its disgust. And they point out that the senator isn't really one of them, after all—having left in from some distant farm a few years ago just after he had gone to long trousers.
"They further point out that John J. Blaine has been in office most of his time he has been in their midst, that they, being busy people themselves, have occasionally elected a man to keep peace in the family. Why do not blame Janesville for being just a little more tired than the rest of the state of this vain, bragging, fourth-rate reformer, and wait very much when the band will be lifted from John gets home a trip.
"We rather expect him to leave the train by the rear platform and sneak down a back street to his residence. And if some good old deacon or justice of the peace doesn't catch him and give him the kind of spanking that he used to get under the paternal roof, it will not be because he doesn't deserve it.

"We believe that hereafter Janesville will insure her reputation for sanity as well as beauty by keeping John Blaine at home—with a muzzle on him."

GO AHEAD

On Wednesday, let the assembly vote that additional ten thousand dollars needed to complete the investigation of the recent Senatorial primary. If they do before they get through they will find that, like Strang, the forefront of the opposition to the election of Senator Stephens, many of the members of the legislature who opposed the working out of the primary were recipients of money from some other candidate. Strang was a fifty-dollar man, cheap at that price for the work he accomplished. Janesville also had his bit of Blaine's pile, as did Lockney and others who have been prominent. Let the investigation go ahead and go to the bottom of the whole affair. They have made a good start and, in what will be the harvest of it?

Today is the last day for local politicians to file their nomination papers and it is safe to say that none have had the office bee in their bonnets will fail to do so.

Eternity ran on to Washington with those precious papers just in time to read of Stephens's election by the Wisconsin legislature. However, he probably came back with La Follette as a special bodyguard, so it did not mean a trip wasted.

The day of the liquor element controlling an election is over and the sooner the nation men find it out the better it will be for their own business. Rockford is now having a taste of being a dry town and Heft may also vote no license.

Taxpayers should not condemn the police department for inactivity, but consider the unsettled condition of the department owing to the pending decision of the Supreme Court as to who is really the head. It is a condition that has been brought about by the council's action solely.

If the state board of agriculture hope to make their state fair a success they must consider the wishes of Milwaukee somewhat and not completely ignore the requests of Milwaukee people. It takes Milwaukee to make the fair a success and without their patronage it would be a second-rate pumpkin show under the present management.

The question of who shall be chosen to represent the different wards in the next council is up to the voters of the respective wards and if the wrong man is chosen it is the voters' fault.

The primary campaign really opens tomorrow when all the candidates are out in the open and can be hunted by the professional politicians for what they will be willing to give for a large block of votes.

It is certain that the primary law will be changed during the present session of the legislature, but how? That is the question. One authority says that is one of the reasons La Follette has come back from Washington, so he can arrange his schedule for his own campaign two years from now.

Milwaukee is having an Automobile show this week. Certainly Milwaukee is coming to the front and there is no reason that it should not shake off its village ways and really become a cosmopolitan city.

Horsley Had No Difficulty

Sir Victor Horsley, the great pathologist, was engaged in a discussion with some brother physicians on Asclepius burst out: "Mad dogs, indeed! I would like to know who can say when a dog is mad." "I think," said Victor quietly, "that if one entered the room just now you would find no great difficulty in deciding."

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.
Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.

SHE WANTS "FREE LOVE."

A Chicago publication that shall be nameless advocates "the freedom of man, woman and child."

One of the editors is a woman, who in a signed article says:
"Love can never be what it might be till the marriage tie is broken. Down with the marriage wall!" Foolish woman!

Does she not know that the walls of marriage are the kindest barriers ever put up by the race to keep women from falling off the verge—from falling into the utmost depths of degradation?

A woman, of all persons, should be the last to tear down these walls.

Let her commit harakiri ere she let down these bars, because by doing so she will simply destroy herself and leave the protecting walls to her sisters wiser than she.

This woman wants "free love." She wants to exchange the ties of wedlock for the whimsy of erratic passion. She wants to be "free," so that she may love whomever she may and how and when she may.

This woman wants freedom in the zone of the affections. But who does not see that true freedom is liberally restrained by law?

She ought to know that the very essence of love requires a bond—liberty to love under the law of love.

For love is not—cannot be—lawless. Love is more than froth of sentiment or impulse of romance or stirring of passion.

Love—real affection—is the outgrowth of devotion and fealty. It develops best in two persons who have common interests, common sacrifices, common hopes and fears, common joys and sorrows.

No woman has really loved a man until in common with him she has passed under the rod; until, through health and sickness, loss and gain, she has been bound to him.

The closer the bond is drawn the greater is the affection; the tighter the knot is tied the greater the happiness.

And that is one, and only one, of the blessings of marriage, which this woman fancies is a mere convention of society.

Poor, foolish, lost woman!

Woman's Age.

Woman is like the moon—many phased—and in all her phases fascinating. She is at her best at three ages, according to your personal taste. If you prefer the beautiful woman, she is at her best between the ages of 20 and 35. If your taste is for the woman of sentiment, she is at her best between the ages of 30 and 45. If you worship intellect, she is supreme between 40 and 60. If you want all of these qualities, seek out a goddess, for goddesses have no age.—David Holmso.

Like a Page from the Past

Rhodes still survives, a medieval city in all its defensive war gear of tower and curtain and keep. It is the city which the Knights of St. John erected in the midst of the Byzantines, after they had been driven out of Jerusalem in the early fourteenth century. Probably few travelers realize how well preserved the tremendous fortifications and dwellings are.

Counsel in Cooper Case Start Their Arguments.

MAY SPRING A SENSATION

Attorney General Expected to File Perjury Charge Against Prominent Man Who Was Witness—Verdict Likely Before Week Ends.

Nashville, Tenn., Mar. 8.—It is believed the Cooper-Carmack murder case will go to the jury by Thursday. Arguments of counsel to the jury were begun today.

It is not improbable that another arrest for perjury will be made upon authority of Attorney General McLean.

Accused is Prominent Man.

This time the accused will be a man of prominence whose testimony was lately contradicted by a half-dozen people of unimpeachable character. The state's attorneys spent yesterday reading the transcript of the testimony and preparing their note for the arguments. They also divided the testimony into three sections so that there would be no time wasted by duplicating their arguments. The attorneys for the defense were equally as diligent.

Judge Hart has asked counsel on both sides to submit to him such instructions as they wish to reach the jury. The attorneys have been busy upon this task for several days and will complete it today. The judge has prepared the statutory charge required by law which defines the different degrees of murder, explains what is necessary to constitute each and what the punishment may be.

Two Points of Attack.

Two points in the case which will be the subject of fiercest attack and defense, will be the question of who fired the first shot and the question, what were the Coopers doing on Seventh avenue, the street which Senator Carmack had to traverse about the time he was wont to go to his apartments.

Mrs. Charles Eastman, who is the only witness to the shooting aside from the principals and over whose shoulder practically, the shots were fired, has sworn positively that Senator Carmack began to fall from the bullet wounds which killed him, before he had his revolver fairly drawn. On the other hand, Col. Cooper and Robin swear that Carmack fired first and was preparing to fire again when Robin began to work the deadly automatic pistol.

40 YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, March 8, 1869. A Good Promise.—We are informed that Superintendent Merrill of the Milwaukee & St. Paul railway has promised to put on a passenger train early in the spring, between Monroe and Milwaukee, for the traveling public. The fare will also be reduced to about two and a half cents per mile for excursion tickets good for two days, which will enable our citizens to avail themselves of cheap journeys to the city of bricks. The privilege is already granted to Watkiss, Whitewater, Oconomowoc, and other places and it is high time that it was extended to Janesville. By buying a ticket to Whitewater and then getting an excursion ticket, a passenger from this city can save about $1.50.

Our Fire Department.—According to the reports of the companies composing our fire department, it appears that there are one hundred and forty-four men reported as active firemen, divided as follows: Water Witch Firemen No. 2, 51; Roseau Hook and Ladder, No. 1, 28; and Washington Firemen No. 1, 65-144, but one member has retained his membership since the organization of the department.

February, 1865, while there appears about a dozen who were members in 1869. A great majority of the members have served but a short time in the department. The fact that the department is left out on account of no report having been received and Champion Engine Co. No. 3, not being chartered. If the companies should all be filled up to the maximum, which is not likely to be the case, the department would have a force of 303 men.

Accident.—On Saturday Mr. John Sparling was quite severely injured while at work in the Clow Reaper Works. He was carrying a large stack of timber on his shoulder when the upper end of the stick came in contact with a drum revolving on a shaft, which had the effect to throw Mr. Sparling several feet, bruising him severely, although it is hoped no permanent bad results will ensue.

The delegates appointed by the different companies for the purpose of putting in nomination candidates for the positions of Chief Engineer and Assistant, will meet on Thursday evening at half-past seven at Water Witch engine-house.

CONGRESS IS CALLED FOR TARIFF REVISION

While House is Wrestling with Bill Senate May Take Up Other Measures.

Washington, Mar. 8.—Although President Taft's call to congress to convene Mar. 15 names only tariff legislation as its object, it is not unlikely that other important matters will be taken up, especially in the senate.

It is generally conceded that at least two months will be required for the house of representatives to conclude consideration of all the scheduled legislation in this legislation. The house itself will not receive the bill for some weeks as the committee on ways and means will require considerable time to report the measure.

During this long period the senate will have nothing to do in respect to the tariff and even after the bill leaves the house it will be in the hands of the committee on finance for some time before the senate actually gets possession of it and the debate begins.

A Great Man.

"The average man," says Mr. Taft, "is just a man like himself, who is appreciated."—Kansas City Times.

TAKE FOR Kodol Indigestion AND All Stomach Troubles

All are the result of indigestion of food remaining in the stomach and putting the whole system out of order—surely will, Kodol digests the food the way it does, because it contains all the digestive elements. If it contained only one or two of them (such as pepsin, etc.) it could not be of so much help to the stomach as it is. And there is no question but that Kodol digests all food anywhere, at any time. When it will digest every particle of all kinds of food, in a glass test-tube, it should have no difficulty in digesting food in your stomach.

Decatur, Ill., Mar. 8.—Whole-sale plundering of the State Asylum for the Feeble-Minded at Lincoln costing the state thousands of dollars and which has been going on for years, has been unearthed by Superintendent W. The arrests resulted from confessions made by two inmates, George Spador and James Anderson, to Chief of Police Magistrate and Superintendent Harb. ## NO NINE STRIKE TILL AUTUMN.

If Demands Are Refused, They Will Wait Until Cold Weather.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Mar. 8.—It is now being predicted here that in the event of the coal operators refusing to grant any of the anthracite mine workers' demands there will be no strike until fall. The assertion is made by men who are close to the union leaders that they would not risk a strike at this time of the year, owing to the fact that there would be but a small demand for the coal during the warm weather and that the 10,000,000 or 12,000,000 tons which the operators now have in storage will suffice to supply much of the demand for several months.

Night Rider Escapes Jail.

Union City, Tenn., Mar. 8.—Hirschel Hogg, a confessed member of the band of "Night Riders," who murdered Capt. The military at Fort Rocco has been notified and are instituting a vigorous search for the fugitive.

PARIS POLICE SPOIL PLAN OF 'SOCIALISTS'

Prevent a Demonstration at the Unveiling of Former Prime Minister's Monument.

Paris, Mar. 8.—The Social Revolutionists, as a protest against the vigorous measures of the government, tried to organize a huge hostile demonstration against Premier Clemenceau yesterday afternoon at the unveiling of the monument erected to Charles Thomas Floquet, former prime minister of France.

President Fallieres, ex-President Loubet, many officers, senators and deputies were present, together with the members of various organizations. At the first sign of unruly manifestations a large force of police, which had been placed on duty, took immediate steps to suppress the demonstrators, a number of whom were arrested.

In a lengthy address M. Clemenceau reviewed the administration of the republic for the past 40 years under the leadership of such men as Floquet. He declared that no other government in the same length of time had accomplished so much. Those who denied the existence of a government of liberty in France today, he said, were, "first, the reactionaries, who desired the return of a government of oppression; second, the church, which only understood liberty as an exclusive privilege; third, the revolutionists, who charged that their liberty was being invaded, when the government was only protecting its own liberty."

BURN NEGRO AT THE STAKE.

Texas Mob Takes Two Lives for Assault on a Woman.

Rockwall, Tex., Mar. 8.—After having been identified by Mrs. Arthur McKinney as the negro who attempted a criminal assault upon her Friday morning, Anderson Ellis was taken from the Rockwall county jail last night and secured to an iron stake driven into the earth, was burned to death in the presence of about a thousand persons.

Earlier in the evening, Will Clark, a negro, was shot and killed when his father, Andrew Clark, refused permission to a posse to search his premises on the assumption that Ellis was concealed there. People were here from several towns and from Dallas, Collin and Hunt, as well as Rockwall county to witness the execution of the negro.

SPLITS METHODIST CHURCH.

Division in Manila Caused by Action of a Pastor.

Manila, Mar. 8.—Nicholas Zamora, the Filipino preacher who has caused a split in the Methodist Episcopal church in Manila and planned to organize an Evangelical Methodist church of the Philippines, surrendered his credentials to the regular church and began forming his followers into an organized body. He is followed by at least a thousand members of his former congregation.

The Presbyterian organization in the island is not affected by the new movement, although it is reported that the assembling Methodists are trying to create a division in that church also.

Butcher's Strike Is Called.

Lynn, Mass., Mar. 8.—A general strike of the 150 McKay butchers employed in 35 shops factories in this city was ordered by the executive committee of the McKay Butchers' union yesterday. The strike is scheduled to go into effect at seven o'clock today, and should it be of long duration will result probably in throwing 5,500 persons out of work. The strike is called to enforce a demand for a new wage scale.

"Brimstone Church" Burned.

Pittsburg, Pa., Mar. 8.—The Smith-Gold Street Methodist Episcopal church, known as the "Brimstone church" from the character of the sermons preached there in its earlier days, and the parent church of all Methodism in western Pennsylvania, was damaged about $25,000 by fire of unknown origin after the close of the services last night.

Shoots Husband; Ends Life.

Norwich, N. Y., Mar. 8.—Mrs. Henry C. Jacobs shot her husband in the head yesterday, inflicting serious injury, and then killed herself. Jacobs probably will live though he will be blind for life. Mrs. Jacobs left a letter in which she accused a Chicago woman of alienating her husband's affections.

THE LAST VOYAGE OF THE DONNA ISABEL

BY RANDALL PARRISH

ILLUSTRATIONS BY DEARBORN MEVILL

"Oh, they all understand about it," he remarked, carelessly. "And now I guess maybe it's about time we gave you the main points to chew on. If you'll step down into the chart-house, Mr. Stephens, I'll fetch some things I want to show you, and be along myself in a jiffy. Then I'll spin a yarn that'll cause you to come with us willingly, or else you're a damn fool."

"There was nothing else to do, and I followed him down the bridge steps to the main deck. The chart-house had its single door opening aft, and was a small, plainly built structure painted a dingy gray, with two narrow windows on either side, and just enough space within to contain a deal table, locker, and three rude benches. I sat down upon one of these, filled and lighted my pipe and waited in silence, gazing idly at the chart pinned flat on the table. It was a map of these waters lying off the Chilean coast, and a vessel's course had been pricked upon it from Juan Fernandez to Valparaiso. This did not particularly interest me, and my thought drifted naturally to the woman impatiently awaiting my return in the cabin. What a distressing situation for one of Lady Darlington's birth and refinement! And yet with what dignity of manner had she met the unexpected! It was plain to be seen that here was a heart of courage, not easily broken under adversity.

And how could I hope to serve her? What would this crew of half-breds, these merciless sea-wolves, permit me to do? Tranship them upon some passing vessel? Put into some isolated island port? This was scarcely likely, for either act would involve the danger of an exposure they would be little inclined to assume. I comprehended already that it would be according to their decision, and not mine. I had been plainly informed how little my control extended over their doings. And whether were we bound? Into what adventure? Into what species of wild enterprise? The utter impossibility of keeping these two concealed below for any length of time was clearly evident. Ship life was far too restricted. Both Tuttle and De Nova would naturally expect to lodge aft, and it was a privilege they could not easily be denied. Yet what would they say, how would they act, when they finally discovered these two unwilling passengers aboard? What was my duty in all the circumstances? It was all a deep, unsolvable mystery, yet out of its mist constantly floated the appealing face of that woman awaiting me below. I could not desert her. I could not consider anything except how I might best serve her interests, best protect her from the contamination of this hell agent.

Three shadows suddenly darkened the doorway, and Tuttle, accompanied by De Nova and the big seaman named Bill Anderson, entered. The second officer nodded to me in genial fashion, his white teeth gleaming, but Anderson slouched surlily past and dropped heavily on a bench, his coarse building features devoid of all expression, his square jaws munching the tobacco in his cheek. I took notice of his eyes, staring straight out of the window opposite, dull, dog-like, deeply sunken under thickened brows, his skin islands, and that's where the Sea Queen picks her nose."

I could merely sit back, staring at the fellow, who remained leaning both hands on the table, his glinting eyes on my face.

"It's a rum yarn, Mr. Stephens, I admit," he said, slowly, his nasal tones much in evidence, "but it's all true, sir, so help me, God! Here's the straight of it, and you listen quiet till I get done. Then I'll answer your questions as long as you've got any to ask."

CHAPTER X.

In Which I Hear the Tale of the First Officer.

Tuttle required a while getting started, pulling aside his dangling coat-tails to sit down facing me, and then twiddling his long fingers with his gaze bent on the deck. I take it that his intellectual operations were naturally slow, although he was swift enough in all matters appertaining to seamanship. Anyhow, he sat there for so long, his whole appearance so aloof and oily, that I lost all patience, shuffling my feet on the deck. The noise served to arouse him.

"It commenced something like over two years ago, sir," he began, musingly each word with care, "a little earlier in the season than this is now, I was master of the whaler 'Bark Betsy,' sailing from Provincetown, and we were homeward bound after about 15 months' cruise in the South Pacific, carrying a fair cargo of oil and whale trimmings. We were roundin' the Horn, being about 70 degrees west and 50 degrees south when the real trouble began. I know that was rather a low latitude, but we had been buckin' against head winds on a high sea for more'n a week, and besides were short-handed, five of the crew havin' skipped out at Somers Island, where we put in after fresh water. Anyway, it was about there that a storm hit us from out the northeast. I guess it must have been one of a hurricane. I never see nothin' fierce, even in those seas. There was nothin' to do but turn tail and run, the ropes and canvas being so stiff with ice. Well, we battered down, and took chances, but for a while I thought every wave was goin' to do for the ol' hooker 'n' send us all to Davy Jones. I couldn't see five feet from the rail, and I had to keep diggin' ice out of my eyes to see at all. The wind had the feel of a solid wall, sir."

Tuttle was leaning forward now, his elbows on the table. His lean, solemn countenance had lost its listlessness, and I also noticed the eager interest imprinted on the faces of his two comrades.

"We was jest roundin' the point," he went on as soon as he took a long breath, "the 'Betsy' keelin' over a like 'brown leather' drawn tight, 'his short red neck, and gnarled hands. Altogether he appeared a repulsive brute, no more easily subdued than a jungle tiger. Tuttle sidled along to the opposite side of the table, upon which he placed a tightly rolled, yellowish-backed paper, evidently a nautical chart. As I watched him curiously, he suddenly pressed the point of his thumb down upon the paper.

"There's our first port, Mr. Stephens," he announced dogmatically. "There, where you see that red cross."

I bent over, started out of all assumed indifference as I studied the position indicated.

"Longitude 110° 30' west, and latitude 46° 17' south!" I exclaimed, scarcely crediting either ears or eyes. "Why, good God, man, that is almost upon the antarctic circle!"

He nodded, running his long fingers through his thin hair.

"Right you are, sir. I guess there won't be no warships a-trailin' after us down in them latitudes; not at this season of the year."

"But there's nothin' there!" I continued, staring incredulously at the map. "Nothing but fog and floating ice. There is no land marked within 500 miles."

"Just the same there's land there," he retorted, positively, his thin lips pressed together. "I've seen it; two islands, and that's where the Sea Queen picks her nose."

more than maybe 100 yards of clear water to the good. Back of an ugly lookin' headland the coast seemed to fall away sudden into a sort of cove, which was piled high with great ice hummocks, behind which the ice wall rose up sheer almost to the top of the rocks.

"There was a sorter shelf along the edge of it, an' a-sittin' up there in full view was the damndest lookin' vessel ever I saw in 50 years of sailin'." So help me God, sir, I saw it with my own eyes, as plain as I can lookin' at you! It was 'listed up all sort of' careened over where it was froze fast so as to show the docks amidships clear to the inner rail. You remember them ships what Columbus sailed in? Well, this hooker was that kind, only a blam'd sight bigger. I guessed her at 850 or 900 ton, but she had the same sort of build—a big high stern, with an after-cabin clear across it, the waist sunk down in a curve, and the foremast raised up like a house, with blunt bows, an' a monster bowsprit forkin' straight up into the air. The whole outfit was so eased with ice an' glittered so in the sun that it seemed like a part of the ice cliff, which had took that queer shape from thawin' an' freezin'. Durnme if I didn't think it was something like that for a minute—a blam'd freak of nature—but when I grabbed the glasses, an' got a good look through them, it was a ship all right, the kind you read about in the books what narrated these waters a hundred or more years ago. I was still a-sailin' at it with all my eyes when we raised the stern, which stood 'listed up a bit higher than the bow, an' where the steady dash of the waves didn't break clean over it, an' the sun fell just right so I read the hooker's name. By God, I did, sir! It was there plain as day: Donna Isabel, Cadiz."

The change in the man speaking held me breathless; his act, his usually oily method of utterance had merged into an earnestness full of fascination.

"Well, that was about all, sir," his voice sinking back into commonplace. "In two hours we were out of 'sight, an' feelin' our way through a bladin' snow squall. But it was such a rum thing, discoverin' them islands out there all uncharted, with that queer ghost ship perchin' on 'em, that I wrote down the latitude an' longitude an' the hooker's name in my log-book. We was about three weeks makin' the West Falklands, where I shipped a few more hands, an' then bore away north for home."

He drew a plug of tobacco from out his coat-tail pocket, cut off what he needed, and stowed it away in his cheek. He ran his fingers through his thin hair, and resumed:

"About 18 months later I was back with the 'Betsy' in the South Pacific. One night, with the moon shinin', hardly a ripple anywhere, my mate run her nose onto a rock, a couple of hundred miles south of Easter Island, an' in less than 20 minutes the bark had gone down like a stone. We made Easter Island in the boats without much trouble, but it wa'n't so easy to get away. I had six weeks of it before I got a chance, an' then I shipped afore the mast on a sundown-wood trader. De Nova here was mate, an' finally, huntin' goods to peddle among the islanders, we sailed into Valparaiso, an' the most of us shipped out. Well, by that time I wa'n't thinkin' very often about that fashin' down in the Antarctic; I was huntin' for some sort of berth to take me back to the States. But one night, down in Rodriguez' back room, where I hung out, I got to talkin' with a gambler named Francisco—the same smooth duck who introduced himself as De Castille to you, sir. He was an educated man, an' seemed to like to hear me talk, an' among other say-yars I happened to tell him this one. He seemed mighty interested, although he wa'n't never given to somarin', an' asked me a whole pile of fool questions. Finally he wanted to meet me again alone the next day.

for years, and always take the lead in quality and prices. Have you seen the new automobile top and front collapsible carts? They are the sweetest carts ever gotten out, and we have the exclusive sale on them. We have them this year; next year all the dealers will have them. We are always one year ahead in styles. An up-to-date cart costs no more than one a year out of style, and this month carts have taken a cut in prices, the same as other goods. I presume you have secured one or more of the

First Authoritative Showing of New Spring Waists for 1909

Our stock includes such famous makes as the Countess, the Standard, the Robertson, the Mendels and the Foster Waists. The new silk waists, the colored silk and cotton waists, the cotton and linen tailored waists, the muslin waists and net waists, both in white and Arabian, all are represented in our new spring display.

It is hardly necessary to say that Janesville's greatest showing is at the Big Store and that the stock is twice, possibly three times greater than the assortments shown by any other house in Southern Wisconsin.

Our dollar waists are beyond competition. We show excellent numbers at $1.50, and there is a very large range between $1.50 and $5.00 and from $5.00 to $12.00 there are many beautiful and exquisite things, which women readily appreciate when looking through the line.

You can simply find anything you want here, a fact which women have learned, and which accounts for the great business we do in the waist department and warrants us in carrying such a tremendous stock—a stock which would stagger the average merchant.

The "Superior" Make of Women's Wash Dresses is Receiving Much Attention

We are satisfied that the Superior line, which we control in Janesville (shown by no other house here), is the best in the market. We had great success with the line last season and are showing a much larger line this season.

AT $5.00 they come in the beautiful colored muslins with bias bands and contrasting trimmings with buttons to match. A very jaunty little dress.

Those at $5.50 are solid colors in a good quality of gingham, trimmed with muslin insertion on collar, cuffs and skirt. These come in blue, gray, pink, etc.

At $6.00 a natty little suit of checked gingham, trimmed with embroidery, yoke of all over embroidery, vest effect, small pearl button trimmings. We show them in black and white, blue and white, and pink and white checks.

WE HAVE A BEAUTIFUL DRESS AT $9.00, of exquisite fine silk mull, elaborately trimmed with round thread insertion and lace to match, fine tucked front and tucks, skirt with rows of insertion and tucks. They come in dainty shadings only. Launder very nicely. They would dress up any woman.

ALSO AN EXCELLENT LINE OF WHITE DRESSES, made of soft mulls with dainty trimmings of lace, embroideries, tucks, medallions truly works of art. The prices range $6.50 to $16.00.

WE ALMOST FORGOT TO CALL YOUR ATTENTION to a "Superior" Mince's tailor suit, which comes in dark Russian blue chambray with white braid trimming on waist and skirt, with tailored belt to match. These promise to be very popular. Priced $4.50.

Many women will not make these cotton dresses, after seeing our "Superior" styles. Our assortment shows many more, but we have not room to mention them.
